1	1 Jiexidie working practices : to adapt the way of working (flexitime	2 ,

Listen to four people talking about staff problems, and fill in the missing words. Then discuss with a partner what solution you would recommend for each problem.

You know, I only started here four months ago but I'm already thinking about __1, is always correcting me, always leaving. Gerry, the shop floor telling me that things are done differently here and he's so negative. He never gives me any real help. And my team is also against me. I just don't know how much longer I can cope. I don't feel in control of the

Miguel: Marketing director

I need help with a problem employee. He's making a lot of mistakes and is argumentative with more, he's taken 20 days' sick leave in the last year and other employees are complaining about it. Several clients have also recently _____ 6 about his attitude.

Janet: Departmental manager

4	I've been here seven years and I desperately need some training on the latest
	⁷ and accounting procedures in my field. I'm now coordinating an international project and it's embarrassing that I know almost nothing about E.U. law.
	My boss tells me we're too busy for training that I'm totally up to date. What do you recommend? Can you talk to my boss?

Holger: Project manager

Now listen again and match the problem with the most appropriate solution below.

Development solutions

- a We are so global in our business approaches, I recommend that we introduce team development training for our managers and staff generally. My proposal is to put it on the agenda for the international managers meeting in three weeks' time.
- b It's essential that we enable our employees to broaden their professional skills and keep up to date in their field of work. We'll lose staff if we continue to expect them to muddle through without investing in their - and our - future!
- c Clearly this should be dealt with by the manager personally! It's high time we introduced a staff appraisal scheme. This is long overdue and will focus managers' minds on the development and evaluation of their employees and hopefully avoid a lot of communication problems like this one.
- d In order to avoid problems like this, we need to introduce an induction programme to inform and empower new employees. Maybe we should look into the benefits of a mentoring scheme too.

36 UNIT 4 HR development

- 5 Below are some of the reasons why companies introduce appraisal schemes. Match the correct heading (a-d) with the sentences.
 - a Succession planning
 - b Motivating staff
 - c Improving performance
 - d Encouraging better communication
 - 1 To give feedback on what employees are achieving already and enable them to do their job better.
 - 2 To enable companies to identify potential for future promotion and focus on certain individuals.
 - 3 To promote better contact between managers and their staff.
 - 4 Open feedback and setting targets for the future, generally encourages staff.

How much do you know about trade unions? Discuss the following statements with a partner and correct any that you think are false. Do others in the group agree with you?

- There are 164 million trade union members worldwide, which makes trade unions the world's largest social movement.
- 2 Trade unions are called 'labor unions' in the U.S.
- 3 The term a 'closed shop' relates to the unions in the retail business.
- 4 The E.U.'s 4 largest states all have modest levels of unionisation (Italy 30%, the U.K. 29%, Germany 27%, France 9%).
- In France, Works Councils must be established in every company with 50+ employees, subject to election every 2 years.
- 6 The major purpose of trade unions is to look after the interests of employers.
- 7 Margaret Thatcher was in conflict with the British trades unions in the 1980s.
- 8 Since the fall of the Iron Curtain in 1989, unionisation in a lot of eastern European countries has increased dramatically.
